Melissa Etheridge stormed onto the American rock scene in 1988 with the release of her critically acclaimed self-titled debut album, which led to an appearance on the 1989 Grammy Awards show. Known for her confessional lyrics and raspy, smoky vocals, Etheridge has remained one of America’s favorite female singer-songwriters for more than two decades. In February 2007, Melissa Etheridge celebrated a career milestone with a victory in the Best Song category at the Academy® Awards for “I Need to Wake Up,” written for the Al Gore documentary on global warming, “An Inconvenient Truth”. In 2016, Melissa Etheridge released Memphis Rock & Soul. “The album is a triumphant application of Etheridge’s signature rasp and substantial guitar chops...,” said one review, while Edge Media Network declared Melissa “is a singer who can fire it up like Janis Joplin, touch the heart like Elvis Presley and steam up the windows like her musical hero, Otis Redding.”
